

The compassion of Christ moved Henri Dunant to organize the International Red Cross, Elizabeth Fry to cause prison reform, Florence Nightingale to establish the nursing profession, Dorothea Dix to crusade for the first state mental hospitals in America, and hundreds of others who literally brought humanity out of darkness into light.

It is shown that the Bible is the source of all liberation movements in history. The Netherlands and Scotland disallowed Jewish Ghettos.

“Without the Bible we would never have known the abolitionist movement, the prison-reform movement, the suffragette movement, the labour movement, the civil-rights movement, the movement of indigenous and dispossessed people for their human rights, the antiapartheid movement in South Africa, the Solidarity movement in Poland, the free-speech and pro-democracy movements in such Far Eastern countries as South Korea, the Philippines, and even China.”¹ And we add, the collapse of the Soviet Union.

World war horrors of the twentieth century and the evil of extreme national pride climaxing in the dreadful Jewish Holocaust, is portrayed in a suitable memorial with the warning that the next millennium, as prophesied by Malraux, will have to be spiritual or it will not exist.

¹ Jennings on Jesus, Christianity Today, June 12, 2000.

After surveying the flow of history, as you exit the museum you pass the statue of Isaiah entitled: “and they shall beat their swords into plowshares...” This moving image is surrounded by a host of great men and women who have become role models and a blessing to all the world, thus fulfilling the scriptural promise to Abraham, “I will bless you so that you will be a blessing and in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed.”

...they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore (Micah 4:3).